From the desk of Editor

Dear friends, welcome onboard! I am thrilled to announce and write an editorial message for the launch issue of ENTECH digital magazine, the ultimate destination for teenagers who are passionate about Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM). Designed specifically for the age group of 13–17, ENTECH digital magazine aims to ignite curiosity, inspire exploration, and guide young minds towards a future filled with endless possibilities.

Esteemed members of the editorial team of ENTECH digital magazine are highly experienced professionals from various fields related to STEM education and careers.

ENTECH magazine understands that teenagers possess a natural inclination towards STEM subjects and endeavors to fuel their interests even further. Our magazine serves as a trusted companion, offering valuable insights, knowledge, and guidance to help teenagers discover their true passions and transform them into thriving professions.

We have taken the decision to make this digital magazine freely available to read; moreover, you will enjoy a completely clean reading experience as you do not need to enter your personal information to read the magazine. No login is required! Your suggestions and feedback are very important to us, and we would love to hear from you to improve ourselves. Although we have taken utmost care to provide error free contents to readers, we will appreciate if readers provide constructive suggestions or points mistakes, if any. Wishing you a fruitful and happy reading experience.
